

39. 412
7399
F 5

Sates of fever viz

- ~~Aphthous~~ —
- Otaffle —
- Aphthous.
- Prophisitosis.
- Scorbatic
- Convulsive
- Typhophobia
- Dystic & Hypocond.
- Cutaneous.

of the Otolgic state of fever.

I call it a state of fever, for it always attends it in a greater or less degree. It is a common disease in children. Now then it accompanies influenza, & all the forms of sore throat. It is sometimes excited by a libation.

Remedies

1 V.S. - 2 prunes - 3 Blisters behind the ears. 4 Laudanum. 5 The smoke of sugar burnt on coals & conveyed into the ear by ~~the~~ ^{the} ~~of~~ ^{it} tobacco ^{to} the fire ~~of~~ ^{it} the Indian sweet sap of the hickory is used by the Indians for this purpose]. If it tends to a suppuration, cataplasms of bread & milk & boiled onions are proper to the external ear. U

✓ Dr Hamilton of Lynn Regis describes an asthous sore mouth in men the leathore which he calls Corker Aysthous.
It is a form of fever & the fever which is derived from marsh exhalation. Children & women are most subject to it. In the former it often destroys the fore teeth: the Ulcers in the mouth are fatal, & discharge a corrosive matter.

2

will generally prevent this termination, as also the destruction of the inner brain Tympani, and deafness. —

The Asthous state of fever.

a sore throat and mouth is never a primary disease when accompanied with fever. It is the effect of an effort of nature to relieve herself by depletion.
It sometimes attends Epidemicness. Dr Grainger describes a fever of this kind in Holland. In Chidam ^{often} it is the effect of general fever induced by the stimulus of the retained mucus, or perhaps by the common atmosphere. How often it occurs ^{as consumps:} Dyspepsia & Diarrhoea, in the close of chronic diseases, in which case it is generally fatal. In Antercoad it is favourable. I have seen one, & read of v The Catarrh of 1803 ended in a sore mouth or low degree of aphtha in many people.

3

Another in which it proved fatal to a child.
I have once known it terminate in Cynanche Thlaspias in a child.

Remedies

~~Not~~ They shd be regulated by the pulse, Season & rising Epidemic. 1. Vs. if the pulse be slow or full. 2 purges. 3 Calmed if nature be incompetent to cleanse the mouth & throat. 4 Blisters. 5 Gargles of detergent liquors - as Sage tea with honey vinegar. Above - anywhere. & books. — Dr Harrington commands very highly a little ^{of the muriatic} ~~Sp~~ water. And in mel: Rosari; applied to the fore. 6 Bark.

It is one of the epidemics of Barbadoes where it has been ably decried by Dr Hindey by the name of the Glandular disease.
^{Dr Hindey who mentions it in} ^{his travels through the West Indies in search of Domingo pulses says}
^{it is a disease of the glands of the import & export of the liver.}
It affects the glands of the throat - the groins, the axilla - breasts - knees - testicles - muscles - eyes & ears externally, also the mesenteric glands - lungs, liver, bladder, rectum, uterus, & ovaria internally. It occasionally affects the teeth & all the bones of the body. - it is then called Ricketts.
It is a very common disease in Eng.

20 of the Hydrophobic plate of paper.

You will find an account of this state of fever in Alibert's excellent treatise upon fevers. It appeared in one or two cases of the yellow fever in 1793. I saw ~~I but once case of it and that was~~ a case of it in ~~among~~ the autumn of 1809 in Geo Wilson.

- The ~~had~~ patient has long been afflicted with the nervous predisposition.
His disease answered all the symptoms of Hydrophobia except the dread of water, which is frequently absent in it. His pulse was active. I was ~~sprayed~~ & blistered him, & thus cured him in a few days.

七 二

The amenorrhagic state of fever. This disease ~~as disease of women~~. will be taken no-tice of when we come to treat upon the diseases of Women.

~~W. G. Brewster~~ says it often accompanies the bilious fevers of Jamaica. ~~and~~ and ^w Elliot informed me he had seen it ~~afflict~~ ^{in a} whole company of Surveyors in the who were affected with the Jamaican fever.

I have seen it several times in this city.

~~Even the yellow fever is sometimes a~~ ~~sympathetic fever according to Abbeut~~ attended yellow fever in 1793 & a case of ~~yellow~~ which ended in dydropsy: intermission under the care of the late Dr. Brown that is known as higher & more permanent grade of convulsions. - Weppen describes an epidemic fever in Germany in 1893 in which convolusions were a general symptom. It was built over the said grain.

Convulsive state of fever

Fever from all their causes are sometimes thrown upon the muscles, and bring on general or partial convulsions. Children are most subject to them. But they occur in adults in many fevers.

The tetanus is sometimes a symptom of fever. ^{V. see Illinois & Dr. Hackett's facts.} These convulsions are now often excited by the motion of the patient, as in Capt. Taylor, & by touch - especially as in the girl in the yellow fever.

Rimedies:

1st. ~~opium~~ and all the remedies which are indicated by the fever of which these convulsions are symptoms, with the addition of such as act more immediately upon the muscular system such as Oil of Amber - Asafetida &c

+ Dr Lydonburn & Dr Willis describe a fever in 1878 which was attended with hypochondriac symptoms.

the Hippocratic fever
I had a remarkable case of it most in the last year 1808 under my care. This Deathophobia was accompanied the typhus or Chorea fever of the season under w : he laboured. He spoke of nothing but Dying every time I visited him, and often fixed upon the precise hour on which he was to die. This foretelling indicated the deepest distress & often honor. Bark - wind volatiles overcame which I took pains to inspire him, overcome both his ~~dispossession~~^{but}, ~~debia~~ fear of death. ~~remember~~ This dread of death however continued after his fever had

The Hysterial & Hypochondriacal States of fever.

Symptoms of both these States of the nervous system often combine in fever. In the Hypochondriac - the brain is affected, and the patient labours under a constant death phobia. In the hysterical State of fever, there is a disposition to fits - with pale urine - Globus and clavis hysterici^t. They are troublesome cases, & require great attention & management. The best Remedies for these states of fever should be the same as for the fever with which these symptoms blend themselves. The palliative need may be given for them to please our patients.

Hysterical Symptoms when blended with fever - go to p: Oppritt 25.

in part left him. In this fituation of his system I changed my conduct towards him. Upon asking him ~~in my~~^{one} first day "how he was" having previously found his pulse ~~weak & enlarged~~^{weak & improved} he answered "very bad," & added that he was sure he should die. I said I was sorry for it, - and there ~~in~~^{a short time after ~~asked~~^{asked} him ~~if~~^{whether I should send a jorner to him to measure him for his Coffin! This question excited very emotions in him - he described his ~~time~~^{he} from that time ~~revered~~^{revered}, without}} ✓ Cutaneous Diseases are commoner Travellers tell us in Egypt. They ^{are} probably a translation of the plague to the skin. ...

=mentioning his dread of death to me in any of my subsequent visits to him.

Mystic symptoms when blooded

The cutaneous state of fever

In this case, the fever is suffocated in the skin.

They are distinguished from the ex-
-tive, by the fever on the skin being in
- a suffocated state - whence they are said,
- ^{attended} to heat, thirst, quick pulse; I have suppo-
- sed the synooy to be an ^{chronic} exsanguinated fever. It arises from all the causes of
- or malign
an annual fever. It is less declined in Europe with those fevers. The prickly heat is a habbitate for yellow fever in the West Indies according to Dr Hillary. None have it in whom this infection continues during a sickly season. The Tinea Capitis and many other local eruptions often alternate with fever. The state of the with fever ~~and~~ ^{not} deduce no form attending chiefly to the fever. It may be known by the pulse - season & reigning Epidemic. I was once called to a lady in consultation ⁱⁿ with a physician of in this city, who for the first attack of the yellow fever had some trifling hysterical symptoms. She was taking ^{nothing but} ~~it~~ a Apapadum.

— I advised leaving ~~it~~ off & ^{the use of} Salmerum, — the by the use of which (the former 13 times) she was cured of a ferocious attack of yellow fever. Her first physician could not believe her disease was yellow fever, because she had not been on board of a ship, nor was any person ill with the yellow fever.

25

blood respects should never be overlooked in prescribing for them.

The Remedies should be 1 Red: 2 purges - 3 meats - slow or full diet according to the state of the system.
+ I mentioned a fact from Dr Thiry of St. in the bleeding pills preventing the leprosy ~~and~~ Asteria. This shows the connection between diseases of the skin & blood letting.

